FIFTEEN KILLED AND MANY HURT

Terrific Explosion Occurs Near Hull, Quebec.

POWDER PLANT BLOWS UP

Baseball Game Was in Progress Near Scene of Disaster and the Crowd in Attendance Swarmed About the Plant to Get a Better View of a Fire in the Powder Mill—Crowd Furnished the Victims.

Ottawa, Ont., May 9.—An explosion which wrecked the plant of the General Explosives Company of Canada, situated a mile from Hull, Quebec, and four miles from this city, killed fifteen persons and seriously injured fifty others. The force of the explosion was terrific. The country for miles around was laid waste and many small dwellings in the city of Hull on the side nearest the scene of the explosion were flattened to the ground. All the dead lived in Hull. They are: Theodore Gange, laborer; Antoine Corvantes, two daughters of Patrick Carriero, both dead mutes; Louis McCann, William Sabourin, Robert Ash, Ferdinand Laurin, John Blanchfield, young son of Alderman La Belle, fell out of window; Joseph Bedard, Horace Anderson, Albert La Blanc and two unidentified children.

Of the injured in the hospital fifteen have broken limbs or other serious injuries.

A baseball game was in progress a short distance from the powder works. The teams were playing the last inning, and when a fire was seen in one of the small buildings of the powder plant the crowd began to swarm about the plant to get a better view of the blaze. Warning of the danger came to the onlookers in two minor explosions soon after the fire got well under way. A shower of sparks and fragments of the wrecked building fell among the spectators and there was a scurrying out of what was considered the danger zone.

Some men in the crowd, aware of the possibilities of the danger, pleaded with the crowd to go still farther back, and many of them heeded the warning. Others, apparently enjoying the element of danger in the spectacle, stood within 1,000 yards of the burning buildings. They were kept on the qui vive by detonations which sent showers of burning brands in all directions.

Two Stunning Detonations.

When the main magazine exploded there were two stunning detonations. Everything within a radius of a mile and a half was torn and shattered. Giant trees were snapped off close to the earth; barns and dwelling houses were converted into kindling wood and even in Ottawa, four miles from the scene, hundreds of plate glass windows were broken.

The scene where the crowd from the ball field stood resembled a battlefield. Headless, armless and legless bodies were lying about among scores of unconscious forms.

The silence which followed the final death dealing blast was more terrifying than the cries and moans which came with a return to consciousness of the badly injured. The shock brought thousands of terror-stricken people into the streets of Hull. Some thought it was an earthquake, while others cried out that the comet had struck the earth. Hundreds of chimneys were toppled over and there is scarcely a whole pane of glass left in the northeastern section of the city.

The first call for aid from the hospitals and the police came from the section of the city nearest the magazine. There it was found that fully forty small dwellings had been shattered and many injured people were imprisoned in the wreckage. The police and fire departments were joined by scores of volunteers in the work of rescue.

It was fully an hour and a half after the explosion that word came into the city of the disaster near the powder works. Ambulances and automobiles were rushed to the scene and the frightfully injured were carried to the hospitals until there was room for no more and then they were brought across the river to this city. A police estimate places the number of dead at fifteen and the injured at fifty.

IS COMING TO AID ACTORS

Pauline Chase Will Assist at Fair, Selling Photographs.

New York, May 9.—Miss Pauline Chase, the well known actress, who has been touring Great Britain, is on her way from Southampton to this city, where she will assist at the Actors' fund fair for eight hours. Miss Chase intends to stand on the auction block at the fair and sell autographed photos of ex-President Roosevelt, European notables and herself.

After she sells her photographs Miss Chase will entertain her friends at the Waldorf hotel and then sail for London the morning following.

Gives Birth to Quadruplets.

Sycamore, Ill., May 9.—De Kalb county's birth record was broken when to Mr. and Mrs. John Alfred Johnson were born quadruplets, three boys and one girl, each weighing about four pounds.

EIGHT SENATORS ARE ILL

And Trouble Is Not Due to Too Much Insurgency.

Washington, May 9.—A general investigation into the cause of the ill health of senators soon will be in order. No less than eight of the members of the highest legislative body in the world are on the sick list, including Senator Daniel of Virginia, McCumber of North Dakota, Tillman of South Carolina, Depew of New York and Penrose of Pennsylvania.

The idea that the trouble is due to too much insurgency is not tenable, as the patients are not among those who find it necessary to take this business very much to heart.

The epidemic of retirement among senatorial leaders may perhaps be attributed to this cause, however. The United States senate, by the way, promises to be almost unrecognizable after March 4, 1911. Aldrich will be out certainly if the macedonian cry from the regulars does not induce him to change his determination. There seems to be a strong chance that the seats of Senators Hale of Maine, Burrows of Michigan, Depew of New York will be occupied by other men, while Lodge of Massachusetts, Beveridge of Indiana, Dick of Ohio, Keam of New Jersey, La Follette of Wisconsin and other leaders can hardly be said to have a copper fastened cinch on their places.

Then Senators Flint of California and Piles of Oregon have announced that they have had enough of the senate. It will be a long time since so many new faces will be seen in the senate.

THE RED DAD OF DEATH.

Tragic Mark on the Steel Skeleton of the Skyscraper.

"See that big blob of scarlet paint?" said the engineer as he pointed to a girder high up in the skeleton of the new skyscraper. "That red spot means that one of the men working on the building was killed by the girder sweeping him off the structure while being put in position."

The visitor craned his neck and saw a rough patch of vermilion paint on one of the floor girders up on the sixteenth story. "It must be a dangerous life," he said to his engineering friend. "Yes. Those men up there are working under the chance of instant death at any moment. They'll walk along the topmost girder, 300 feet above the sidewalk—a little path of slippery iron five inches wide—and will lean out far against the wind. You or I couldn't do it for a second."

"Now and again there's an accident. A chap slips. A worker gets hit by a swinging girder and flung off. Another man takes an incautious step and falls off into eternity. The men working near by do their best to get at him if he manages to grab the girder he's falling from, and there are some swift and reckless races with death to get to their comrade at any cost in the five or ten seconds allowed them while strong fingers are sliding away from a slippery beam flange. If the worst happens and the man falls in spite of their efforts, then they apply the dab of red paint, and the ironworkers call it a day. They don't speak much of the man that is gone, as a rule. He's soon forgotten. The men consider it fate."

"You'd think, by the way," went on the engineer, "that the higher up these men worked the more careful they'd become. They aren't particularly careful, but they do guard against the hypnosis of height. One of the men working on a high girder gets paralyzed now and again by a sudden fear that holds him motionless and still on his iron beam."

"The men look out for this sort of thing, and the remedy is to distract his attention by a rough blow on the back or in some cases by exciting him to anger through any means in their power. When the man gets fighting mad he is freed from the paralysis of terror or whatever you may choose to call it. He gets up from his girder to make a rush for the other fellow to do him up, and the moment he is safe he is restrained by the other men."

"Whenever you see a skyscraper framework," concluded the engineer, "each dab of scarlet paint on the iron means that some man has come to his death. Every skyscraper and every bridge is the monument to some little group of unknown workers, laboring at dizzy heights and dallying with sudden death as part of their day's work."

—New York Press.

How She'd Prevent It.

Her mother warned her sharply. "If you do that again I'll smack you," she said.

"No, you won't," replied the quick-witted daughter. "I'll sit down on myself, and then you can't."—Young's Magazine.

Duluth Woman Badly Burned.

Duluth, May 9.—Mrs. Ole Johnson was, it is believed, fatally burned at her home while making coffee over an alcohol stove. The stove exploded and she was burned from head to foot in a terrible manner before her husband could extinguish the flames. She is in a hospital.

Train Kills St. Paul Man.

Waconia, Minn., May 9.—A man named Terrard, living in St. Paul, was ground to death beneath the wheels of the Minneapolis and St. Louis west-bound night passenger three miles east of Waconia. He was fifty-five years old. It is presumed he went to sleep on the track.

C. DANA DURAND.

DURAND ISSUES STATEMENT

Says Bureau Will Issue No Preliminary Official Counts.

Washington, May 9.—Like a vast warship the census bureau here "has cleared its decks for action."

In addition to the main building of the bureau two others have been leased, giving a total floor space of 150,000 square feet, which is enough to accommodate the permanent census clerks and the temporary force of 3,000 employees, whose services will be required during the coming summer.

The enumerators' schedules have begun to arrive, but it will be several weeks before official announcement is made of the total population of any city in the country. The population of the cities will be first tabulated, after which the minor civil divisions will be completed. C. Dana Durand, director of the bureau, announced that "no preliminary official statements will be issued by the bureau until the 'established count' for each of the different areas has been made. There will be no 'rough counts' or 'approximations,'" he added, "no sacrifice of accuracy for haste."

Work will be carried on nights as well as by day.

FOREST FIRES RAGE IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA

Smoke Hangs Like a Pall Over Duluth and Vicinity.

Duluth, May 9.—Light rains throughout Northeastern Minnesota have not been sufficient to check flames in the northern woods and the forest fire situation is becoming very grave.

This entire section is thick hung with heavy palls of smoke, great curtains of it falling over Duluth all day. The air has become so dense from this source the fog signal station has been blowing on account of the smoke over the lake.

The conflagration rose to considerable magnitude in the dense timbers south of Ely. Two camps of the St. Croix Lumber company have been wiped out there, and several settlers have lost their buildings.

A fierce forest fire is burning on both sides of Gooseberry river, a few miles east of Two Harbors. Fishermen returning from there report the smoke is so dense in every quarter they experience great discomfort.

Dry conditions throughout the forests and continuous breezes have aided the swift movement of the flames. It is feared the destruction of property, when once losses are made known, will reach a large figure.

TAKE PART IN AN ELECTION

Women Elect Their Candidates for School Board.

Wahpeton, N. D., May 9.—Reports from Hankinson, located a short distance southwest of this city, state one of the liveliest election fights in the history of the city occurred there. The occasion for the fight was the annual school election, and the trouble had been brewing for some time.

Numerous people were inclined to endorse the former board for the succeeding term, but several, including a number of women, were decided a new board should be elected. All day election day the ladies of the city had teams and automobiles out carrying prospective voters to the polls, and when the votes were counted the candidates endorsed by the women of the city were elected by majorities ranging from five to seven votes.

When Jackson Died.

When Colonel Davy Crockett was a member of congress and was at his home in Tennessee some one asked him about the dinner hour in Washington. He said the common people ate dinner at 12, the next above them at 1, the merchants at 2, the representatives at 3, the senators at 4, members of the cabinet at 5 and the vice president at 6.

"But when does the president dine?" "What! Old Hickory?" said Crockett, anxious to fix a time that would suit his idea of Jackson's greatness. "Well, he doesn't eat till next day!"

AGAIN SHORTENS HIS PROGRAMME

Colonel Roosevelt Suffers From Bronchial Trouble.

PHYSICIAN VISITS HIM TWICE

Recommends That the Former President of the United States Stay Indoors as the Weather Is Blustery and Rainy at Stockholm—Big Crowd Greets the American at the Legation.

Stockholm, May 9.—Former President Roosevelt shortened his programme even more than it had already been abbreviated by King Edward's death, because of the hoarseness from which he suffered, due to an inflammation of the bronchial tubes. A throat specialist visited the palace twice and recommended that Colonel Roosevelt stay in doors, as the weather was blustering and rainy.

Colonel Roosevelt only left his apartments once. He took lunch with Charles H. Graves, the American minister to Sweden, at the legation and there met Sven Hedin, the explorer; Dr. Nordenskjold, the Antarctic explorer; Admiral Palander, Professor Arrhenius, who is connected with the Nobel institute, and other scientific and literary people. He intended to make a speech at the national museum before the students and the massed singing societies, but gave this up, and instead bowed from the balcony of the legation to the students and singers who gathered in the street below and sang selections.

Greeted by Large Crowd.

The combined choruses rendered Swedish songs and the "Star Spangled Banner" and at the conclusion of the singing Colonel Roosevelt expressed his thanks. The crowds on both sides of the water front facing the legation were estimated at between 30,000 and 40,000, the greatest crowds, Minister Graves said, he had ever seen in Stockholm. The roofs of the houses and the shipping in the harbor were crowded and a mighty shout went up when he appeared.

Later he received in the legation the Swedish members of the Interparliamentary union. Senator Beckman, addressing Mr. Roosevelt, referred to his services to the cause of peace and the former president replied very briefly.

Professor Gumar Anderson presented to him the first copy, just from the press, of the Norwegian geological survey, which had been specially bound.

The crown prince spent some time in the colonel's room in the forenoon and had tea with him in the afternoon, at which also the crown princess and other members of the royal family were present.

A Stockholm paper publishes a statement that a messenger from Taft was received by Mr. Roosevelt with a letter in which Mr. Taft says he does not intend to be the candidate for the presidency and invites Mr. Roosevelt to become secretary of state to succeed Mr. Knox. When he was shown this story Mr. Roosevelt said that it was worse than a nightmare, that it was a tissue of absurdities and that of course no such messenger or message exists.

MEMORIALIZED IN MARBLE

Statue of Former President to Be Erected at Medora, N. D.

Washington, May 9.—Theodore Roosevelt will be memorialized in marble, characteristically posed, in a statue to be erected at Medora, N. D. An announcement to this effect was made in Washington by Representative Hanna of North Dakota.

Hanna is president of a committee appointed to expend a fund raised by citizens of his state for the purchase of a statue of Mr. Roosevelt. Some weeks ago Mr. Hanna wrote Colonel Roosevelt asking him to indicate his wishes in the matter. A reply came to the effect that Colonel Roosevelt disapproved of the erection of statues of living men, that he believed that statues had not been erected to the memory of any man until he was long dead, but that if "old friends around Medora were determined to honor" him that he would interpose no objection. Word came that Colonel Roosevelt, while in Christiania, Norway, had complied with a suggestion made by Mr. Hanna that he pose for Gustave Vigeland, the sculptor whom his North Dakota friends had designated to do the work.

There will be a great time at Medora when the statue of Roosevelt is unveiled. The date of the ceremony will not be determined until later.

Eminent Engineer Dead.

Rochester, Minn., May 9.—Walter Craig Kerr, fifty-one years old, of Donjon Hills, Long Island, N. Y., one of the world's most eminent engineers, died of uraemia at Rochester, following an operation for kidney trouble. He died in the town he was reared in and near St. Peter, Minn., where he was born and where he knew the late Governor John A. Johnson from childhood.

SCENE OF CARTAGO.

LOSS OF LIFE AT CARTAGO

Now Estimated That It Will Reach Fifteen Hundred.

San Jose, Costa Rica, May 9.—Up to noon Sunday 800 bodies had been taken from the ruins of the houses overthrown in the earthquake of last Wednesday evening at Cartago. The estimate of the dead places the number at 1,500, but it is possible this will be exceeded.

Large forces, which have gone to Cartago from San Jose and other points, are now engaged in the work of rescue, and even Sunday several living persons were taken from under the piles of stone and timbers where dwelling houses once stood.

The number of sick and injured cannot be counted, many of them having been removed to adjoining towns and villages, and since the disaster scores have died from their injuries.

Large fissures have opened up in Cartago province, which have given additional cause for alarm.

Ten thousand persons have been rendered homeless, and the severe rains and lack of food and drinking water are responsible for much suffering. It has been found impossible to provide shelter for the people, who are huddled together in a pitiable condition.

WHEN DOLLIVER AND CUMMINS GET BACK

Truce Between Senate Factions Will End.

Washington, May 9.—Under a flag of truce hostilities between the conservative and progressive Republicans of the senate over the administration railroad bill have ceased temporarily. They will be renewed probably when Senators Cummins and Dolliver return from Iowa, where they have gone to open the campaign. They are not expected to arrive in Washington until Thursday. Senator Aldrich is expected to return from Rhode Island Tuesday. If he should attempt to precipitate a vote on any important amendment Senators La Follette and Clapp will undertake to hold the floor.

Meanwhile the White House will be the scene of the real activities, President Taft having undertaken to bring into line some of the so-called "near progressives," whose attitude on the railroad bill has been a matter of doubt. That work was begun Saturday and it was claimed that Senators Gamble and Crawford of South Dakota would join the forty-five regular Republicans previously canvassed, making the necessary "all Republican majority" for the administration programme.

President Taft will be absent from Washington the early part of the week on a visit to New York and Passaic, N. J.

THOMAS BYRNES IS DEAD

Noted Thief Catcher a Victim of Gas-tritis.

New York, May 9.—Thomas Byrnes, who as New York chief of detectives was known throughout the civilized world as the greatest thief catcher the world has ever produced, is dead of gastritis. He was surrounded by members of his family at the end.

Mr. Byrnes had been ailing for some time. Two months ago he was reported as dying. He rallied and was able to leave his sick bed. Two weeks ago there was a relapse and he was put to bed again. No arrangements have been made for the funeral.

Probably no man was better known in the world of police and no more feared in the world of crime than was Thomas Byrnes. It was while inspector in charge of the detective bureau in Mulberry street that Byrnes won his greatest fame.

From the day he became a member of the police force in August, 1869, until he retired on May 27, 1905, Inspector Byrnes was a thief catcher first of all and it was as such he became a real valuable servant of the people.

Found Guilty of Murder.

Washburn, Wis., May 9.—Thomas Lillystrom, charged with the murder of John Cochenour at Port Wing last fall, was convicted there of murder in the second degree. Lillystrom pleaded self defense. Cochenour was shot while out hunting, and his body was covered up with leaves. Lillystrom said that they had quarreled and that Cochenour had threatened to shoot him first.

BESIDE BODY OF HIS ELDEST SON

BUILT ON DISCIPLINE.

Big Department Stores Are Managed Like an Army.

"This is like an army," the manager explained when I went to him to ascertain by what system he handled the big department store. "The assistant managers are the generals, the department heads the colonels, the floorwalkers majors, and so on down the line. Only matters which are out of the ordinary routine are brought to the commander in chief."

"The organization is built on discipline. Each individual knows what work he has to do, and if he fails the failure reacts directly upon him. Thus each in turn is responsible to the one above him until the responsibility reaches this office. In the final analysis I am responsible to the firm. If a girl ties a bundle wrong or there is a dispute with a customer I am directly responsible, although I have probably known nothing of the incident. I pass the actual administration of authority and responsibility right down the line until the person who is at fault feels it personally. Doubtless hundreds of things happen in this store every day of which I have no knowledge, and I don't need to know about them. So long as the man to whom I have delegated the authority delegates it in turn to some one who knows how to use it properly there is no reason why I should interfere."

"This is the way it should be. I should not consider that we had an effective system if it were otherwise. A system must be so perfectly organized and every man must know and live up to his responsibilities so sincerely that I could walk out of this office today and not return for six months."—Interview With Manager of New York Store in Bookkeeper.

Eating Away an Island.

Strength is not a thing usually connected with maidenhair fern, yet if its roots have not sufficient room they will break the pot in which the plant grows. Blades of grass will force the curbstones between which they spring up out of their place, and in a single night a crop of small mushrooms have lifted a large stone. Indeed, plants have been known to break the hardest rocks. The island of Aldabra, to the northwest of Madagascar, is becoming smaller and smaller through the action of the mangroves that grow along the foot of the cliffs. They eat their way into the rock in all directions, and into the gaps thus formed the waves force their way. In time they will probably reduce the island to pieces.—London Globe.

King Edward Will Be Laid to Rest at Windsor.

DATE FOR BURIAL UNCERTAIN

Tentatively Fixed for May 20, But It May Occur Two Days Before That Time—Body of the Late Monarch Will Lie in State in Westminster Hall, Under the House of Parliament.

London, May 9.—The tomb of Edward VII. will be beneath the Albert Memorial chapel at Windsor, where the body of his eldest son, the Duke of Clarence, has a sepulcher. The obsequies probably will be held on May 20. Before the funeral the body of the king will lie in state in Westminster hall, under the house of parliament, which was last the scene of a similar ceremony when for two days and nights a constant stream of citizens filed past the coffin of the great commoner, Gladstone. Before being taken to Westminster the body will lie in state in the throne room at Buckingham palace. King Edward's casket will be fashioned out of oak grown in the royal forest at Windsor. It will first be lowered to the vault beneath the chapel floor of St. George's chapel, Windsor castle. Afterward, when the permanent tomb has been prepared, it will be removed to Albert chapel.

Queen Alexandra and King George conferred with various officers of the state and household concerning the funeral arrangements. The date of the burial was tentatively fixed for May 20, although it may be May 18, the date on which Theodore Roosevelt is scheduled to deliver the Romanes lecture at Oxford university.

The members of the royal family, it is believed, would prefer that there should be no lying in state, but it was represented to them that the wishes of the people were so strongly for this that they were willing to waive their personal inclinations.

Impressive Incident.

An impressive incident illustrated Queen Alexandra's desire to show consideration for British subjects of every class. General Booth sent a message that the Salvation Army wished to show honor to Edward VII. by holding a service before the palace and Alexandra gave permission. A large band, wearing red jerseys and carrying silver instruments and banners with scarfs of crepe pushed through the crowd to the palace inclosure. The big iron gates were opened and the band formed a circle under the windows. First they knelt, while the leader prayed, and then they sang "Nearer My God to Thee," "Abide With Me," and "Angels Ever Bright and Fair." Finally they marched out, singing "Onward Christian Soldiers." The blinds were closely drawn, but the attendants say that Queen Alexandra left her apartments, with Princess Victoria and her ladies in waiting, and listened to the singing from behind them.

The crowds around the palace were undiminished as well as at Marlborough house. The streets are filled with people, but there is little mourning decoration on the London buildings as yet. All political discussion forebodes a truce and the shelving indefinitely of the struggle between the house of commons and the house of lords. The bishop of Worcester, preaching in the cathedral, said that patriotism and chivalry demand that contentious questions be put aside by the statesmen of all parties for a year at least.

The house of commons will meet on Wednesday, when Speaker Lowther returns, to receive the address from the throne. Premier Asquith and A. J. Balfour, leader of the opposition, will reply. Mr. Asquith and Reginald McKenna, first lord of admiralty, embarked at Gibraltar on the cruiser Enchantress for home.

According to a circular issued from Marlborough house the designation of the new queen will be Queen Mary.

Ends Life With Acid.

Durand, Wis., May 9.—Herman Heinz, a mason, living west of this city, committed suicide by swallowing the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid. He and a companion were sitting on a log by the roadside when he said goodby, and, swallowing the contents, rolled over in agony.

Killed by Vicious Bull.

Boston, May 9.—Stephen D. Hadley, one of the most prosperous farmers in Spencer, Mass., and father of William Hadley of St. Paul, is dead as a result of injuries sustained by an attack from a vicious bull. The bull broke Hadley's collar bone, smashed several ribs, inflicted several head wounds and caused internal injuries.

Two Minnesota Miners Killed.

Duluth, May 9.—Dominick Haryelle thirty years old, employed on a steam shovel working in ore at the Hawkins mine, Nashauk, was struck by a dipper stick and killed. Max Santana, twenty-seven years old, a worker at the Monroe Tener mine, was fatally injured. He was astride of a beam which gave way and fell thirty feet.

MEMBER FROM MINNESOTA

When a member of congress is officially recognized by the speaker, it is by the name of his state. He is "the gentleman from Minnesota" or
"the gentleman from New York," as the case may be, but no reference is made to his district, whether it be the First or the Thirtieth or some other number.

His state alone designates him, and not any subdivision of his state, because he is supposed to represent his state as a whole, and does not even have to reside in the district which he happens to elect him. Frequently, indeed, members of the house are elected from a state at large.

Here at home each district claims its individual member as its own, but he ceases to be its personal property
when he takes up his duties in Washington. Minnesota has one member, however, who peculiarly belongs to the entire state. That one is Mr.
James A. Tawney, who is elected for the state by the First district.

The people of the state as a whole are for Tawney or against Tawney just as earnestly as are those of the southeast corner of counties, who vote for or against him. And this includes democrats as well as republicans, for many of his most ardent admirers are in the opposing party.

Nor is unusual or peculiar if those in other districts, free from the excitement of the immediate for or against contest, have the more unbiased judgment of the man and his value. They are removed from the personal element that more or less prejudices every one immediately interested as a voter in a political campaign.

It is not strange, therefore, that Minnesota, as a state, is intensely interested in the First district situation, nor that the great majority of the people as a whole hope for Mr.
Tawney's return. Especially is this true of the republicans, and the News
Tribune is among his well wishers.

Even if he were as radical a standpatter as his opponents maintain,
because of his vote for the present tariff law, still we would be for him, recognizing his right to an honest difference of opinion as to the degree of protection and his value to the state over and above this. But he is not and has not been a radical standpatter; on the contrary, he has been a foremost tariff reformer, and is now the man chosen to father the commission bill.

He led the fight for lower schedules in the house. The present law does not suit him and never has. He doubtless considers it better than the Dingley law, as it is, and so "the best tariff law ever passed by congress, which it is, but the people are
now more discriminating as to laws
than they were.

gress, which it is, but the people are
now more discriminating as to laws
than they were.

Mr. Tawney made his fight and then submitted to a licking by his party majority. He was so placed that he practically had to yield his own better judgment, and every other of the eight members from this state who voted against the bill upheld him in his action. They were there.

But entirely outside this one issue,
Mr. Tawney is too valuable a man, too able, too influential, too loyal and effective a member to be sacrificed to a quibble. The state needs him, and if the First district is loyal to the state, if it cares more for the state than for its own prejudices, personal differences, and differences in honest opinion as to details and degrees, it will return him by an emphatic majority.—Duluth News-Tribune.

The red lemonade season and circus time approaches.

Bob Dunn says he is not a candidate for any office this year, not even the legislature, and he predicts the nomination of Gov. Eberhart.

Bryan has resigned from the list of eligibles for the presidency. That is a habit democrats have who really desire to get into the limelight.
Never again.

The agitation for a safe and sane
4th of July seems to be general among the boys who have attained the age of 60 or thereabouts. There are boys, however, who do not take so kindly to the idea.

What was done to the democratic machine in St. Paul is but a forecast of what will happen to the democratic state machine in November.
The kitchen cabinet are already showing signs of unrest.

Teaching every girl to thump the piano and every boy to be a bookkeeper will make potatoes worth $8 per barrel in another 20 years, is the deduction of the Virginia Enterprise. Good, we are glad that learning is recognized. Give every boy and girl in the land a good education if it raises the price of potatoes to $8 a bushel, and we will warrant that the Virginia editor will not go hungry at that.

Frank A. Day may not be able to hold a democrat from getting into the Sixth district congressional scrap although he has passed the word that no democrat shall oppose the present congressman. As a rule the democrats have had very hard luck in this district as far as congressmen go and it is quite possible that Day's stand is a gallery play, and to save money that would otherwise have to be placed on a sure loser. Frank sometimes plays both ends against the middle.

And now Moorhead is agitated because there is a rumor that will not down to the effect that our noble red brothers have been getting liquor from the booze dealers in that city and that Pussfoot Johnson has caught them at it. This will certainly stir up a hornet's nest, for all North Dakota is interested, and Fargo in particular. Wouldn't it be awful if the thirsty of the two cities had to slake their appetite for drink from the water of the Red river.

Just to show what kind of stuff he is made of P. H. McGarry has invited Congressman Lindbergh to attend the meeting of the north central editors at his summer resort near Walker early in June. Some fellow put up a howl that McGarry had put up a job on the sitting member, when the fact is that the editorial meeting was arranged many months before the Walker statesman made up his mind to contest for the congressional nomination. If congress adjourns in time McGarry and Lindbergh will both be in attendance—but there will be no politics mixed in the gathering.

The democrats have called their state convention for July 28th, which is rather early for them to get their candidates into the open. It is expected that they will endorse a candidate for the United States senate and put up a ticket they can fight for down the entire line. It is to be the grand effort of the democratic party in Minnesota this year to retain their hold on political affairs that they have attained during the past six years and they will fight like drowning rats as they see the power slipping from their grasp.

Mark it down in your note books or on the wall, that on May 18th we shall witness the sight of the sun through the great blazing head of a comet, which will continue for a period of three hours. On this date the earth will plunge into the tail of Halley's comet at the rate of 65,000 miles an hour and as the tail of this comet is being whisked through space at the speed of 105,000 miles every 60 seconds the impact should be something terrific, but as this tail is a luminous haze or celestial mist no serious results are anticipated. It will take the earth nearly three and a half hours to pass through 600,000 miles of comet tail. The superstitions will be the only ones to suffer from the contact.

RUN OVER BY AN AUTOMOBILE

Wales V. French is Struck and Run Over by John Liljendahl on Sunday Afternoon

FRENCH WAS RIDING A BICYCLE

Accident Happened Near South Sixth and Laurel Streets—Both Tried to Avoid Each Other

Wales V. French, a machinist employed by the Northern Pacific railway shops and residing at 424 South Sixth street was struck and run over at half past five on Sunday afternoon by John Liljendahl, of 901 Laurel street, as the latter turned his car out from South Sixth street to Laurel street.

French was riding a bicycle west on Laurel street when the accident occurred. Mr. Liljendahl stated as follows: "I turned the corner and saw Mr. French riding towards me on his wheel. He was in the center of the street. I turned to the right and he swung to the same side of the street. I put on the brakes and turned to the left so as not to hit him. He dodged over to the same side right in front of me and I couldn't help it and struck him. He fell off his bicycle and one front wheel, I think, of my runabout passed over his legs. I was not running fast."

There was quite a little travel down Laurel and Sixth streets, so that many bystanders witnessed all or part of the accident.

Dr. Arthur W. Ide, of the Northern Pacific sanatorium was summoned, and examined Mr. French as he lay on a cot in the corridor of the Citizens State bank near Johnson's drug store. No bones seemed to be broken, as Mr. French was able to stand and to walk a little when assisted and taken to the carriage that conveyed him home.

Witnesses of the collision say that French was thrown from his wheel by the shock, and that thereafter the bicycle, its rider and the automobile were mixed in inextricable confusion, all three hitting the curbing on the north side of Laurel street.

The writer called at the home of Mr. French two hours after the accident to see him, but was informed by his wife that he did not care to see anybody and that he wanted to rest.

Mr. French was seen this morning and gave the writer a short account of the accident. "I had been fishing out at Merrifield most of the day and was coming home on my wheel. I was about 200 feet from the corner of South Sixth street and Laurel street, opposite Sherlund's plumbing shop and about 12 feet from the curbing when I was struck. I saw Liljendahl coming around the corner and turned to the right and tried to avoid him. The front of his automobile struck the side of my bicycle and threw me on the side of the curb. I was knocked dizzy. When I came to there were two front wheels of the automobile on the curb and I was lying across the curb under the machine and some of the cross bars of the auto were pressing down on me and holding me against the curb. They had to lift the machine up to get me out. I think a wheel passed over me."

We have had automobiles in town for over five years and this is the first time in the history of the county or city that a person has been injured in an auto accident.

Pay $50 Cash and Move in to 4 room cottage with two lots, nice trees, front porch, city water, good cellar, good view on north 10th St. Pay $12.50 a month for 5 years, then you own the place fully paid. If you get sick or out of work, payments extended. This offer open one week. Nettleton. 28713

SUIT BROUGHT ON LAND CONTRACT

Litigation Incident to Mining Industry is Commenced in the District Court

RECEIVER & ACCOUNTING ASKED

Answer Filed by Defendant Through Attorney Making General Denial of Cause

Suit has been commenced in the district court of the 15th judicial district by Frank A. Glass against Henry J. Kruse. Wilson, Morgan & Morgan, of Duluth, appear for the plaintiff and M. E. Ryan, of Brainerd, appears for the defendant.

The plaintiff in the summons and complaint filed May 6, 1910, alleges that on or about December 15, 1908, the defendant represented to the plaintiff that defendant had secured and was the owner of a contract by the terms of which an undivided 1/2 interest in the W 1/2 of the SW 1/4 of section 23-47-28 was to be conveyed to said defendant causing said premises to be drilled for iron ore; that thereupon said defendant, Henry J. Kruse entered into an agreement and contract of co-partnership with this plaintiff whereby, it is alleged, it was agreed that said defendant and this plaintiff should drill or cause to be drilled for iron ore the said described lands; that said defendant and this plaintiff had said defendant and this plaintiff should endeavor to secure option contracts for the purchase of other lands in the vicinity thereof; that said option contracts should be taken in the name of said defendant, Henry J. Kruse, that said defendant should bear 2-3 of the expense of said drilling and of securing said option contracts, that this plaintiff should bear 1-3 of the expense of said drilling and of securing said option contracts; that said options and said interest should be disposed of as soon as it could be practically and profitably done, and that of the proceeds thereof said plaintiff should receive 1-3 and the defendant 2-3, that in securing, holding, drilling and disposing of said options and in holding, drilling and disposing of said interest in the W 1/2 NW 1/4 of section 23-47-28 said Glass and Kruse were to be co-partners.

It is further alleged that this plaintiff secured or assisted to secure options from Fred L. Haag and wife on December 23, 1908, on the S 1/2 of the NE 1/4 of section 27-47-28; from John A. Carlson and wife on January 14, 1909 covering lands in section 28-47-28; and from Dietrich Harms and wife on same date covering lands in section 22-47-28, all these lands being in Crow Wing county.

It is alleged that said defendant Kruse disposed of said option contracts above described to the Interstate Iron Co., that by said disposal and is said transaction this plaintiff and said defendant, as copartners, have made a profit of $7,750, that said defendant Kruse still owns and holds in his own name for the benefit of said defendant and this plaintiff as copartners an undivided 1/2 interest in the W 1/2 of the SW 1/4 of section 23-47-28.

It is alleged that Kruse has refused an accounting. The plaintiff prays that a receiver be appointed, that an accounting be had, that such other and further relief be granted plaintiff, and that said plaintiff recover costs and disbursements in this action.

The answer filed by the defendant through his attorney, M. E. Ryan, is a general denial of the various causes of actions alleged.

G. A. R. Benefit

The benefit tendered the Woman's Relief Corps, the proceeds of which are to go towards helping defray the expenses incident to the Memorial day exercises, will be given at the Unique theatre Tuesday evening, May 10. The proprietor of the Unique has kindly tendered the use of the same and the public generally is requested to help swell the proceeds on that night. Admission 10 cents.

STOCKED GULL LAKE

Over Ten Million Fertilized Eggs Planted in the Lake by I. U.

White This Spring

Gull lake has been stocked with pike spawn this spring and something like 10,000,000 fertilized eggs were planted by I. U. White during the time the fish and game commission, were getting their spawn for the fish hatcheries. Some criticism has been indulged in in former years regarding the taking of spawn from the lake but when it is known that a plant of this kind equals all the spawn that would be deposited in the natural way in the lake during the season and that the results are 100 fold greater it can be understood why the commission does not damage the fishing in their spring campaign. The replacing of the spawn and the knowledge that it is done will be pleasing news to the Isaac Walton's in this locality.

The High Cost of Living

Increases the price of many necessities without improving the quality. Foley's Honey and Tar maintains its high standard of excellence and its great curative qualities without any increase in cost. It is the best remedy for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough and all ailments of the throat, chest and lungs. The genuine is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. For sale by all druggists. mwf

Cherub Devine

By
SEWELL FORD

Copyright, 1909, by Mitchell Kennerley

Just why it should have happened then or at all Cherub Devine will never understand. But the inexplicable arrived. He was aware of a sudden deep sob, which seemed to shake from crown to heel the graceful figure before him. He heard a half articulated exclamation, saw her turn waveringly toward him, and in the next instant she was in his arms. Abruptly the old audacity had rushed upon him, and he had accomplished the impossible.

Nor did that complete the miracle. She was clinging to him, one soft arm against his cheek, her warmly tinted face raised to his, her moist brown eyes shining under long lashed, half closed lids.

"I know, I have known," she was whispering as one who pants out a message after a long, hard run.

"Guess!" he breathed. "Then—then you will!"

"Yes, Cherub."

"And you will!"

"No, no." Suddenly she was no longer passive. She struggled to free herself. "Oh, you must leave me. There is something—I can't tell you. But I can't see you again—perhaps not for years. Oh, you must go away!"

"Go!" echoed the Cherub.

"Yes, go and forget. Indeed you must. Please go!"

"Yes, yes, countess; I'll go, but not until!" Impetuously he drew her face up to his until their lips met. It was no hasty, incoherent performance. He made a thorough and highly satisfactory job of it before she could slip away from him.

"Now go, go! Please go!" she pleaded.

"It's the last thing I'd want to do," said the Cherub, "but if you say I must!"

"Oh, indeed you must! I've been weak, wickedly weak! And you must go away. No! don't look at me again or remember me. Go!"

Cherub Devine reluctantly obeyed. Whether he walked soberly down the carriage road or whether he floated through the air he could not have told. Only when he reached the big stone gates was he sufficiently composed to take note of concrete objects. And then he realized that some one was peering at him from behind a bunch of shrubbery.

CHAPTER XI.

NOW, one doesn't expect to find a man in frock coat and silk hat dangling behind bushes on a place like Hewington Acres. Yet Cherub Devine had come to associate that particular part of Long Island with all sorts of surprises.

It appeared that this new arrival had intended to see without being seen, but he had not seen quite quick enough. Without stopping to consider just why he was doing it Mr. Devine promptly joined in the game by stepping into the shrubbery also.

The Cherub parted the bushes cautiously. He discovered the stranger doing the same thing. Twice the Cherub stole stealthily around a bush, sure of having executed a successful flank movement on the unknown, only to find that he had disappeared like a flash.

Taking off his straw hat, the Cherub balanced it carefully on the top of a rhododendron and began making a cautious detour. To walk in a stooping position for any distance one needs to be in good condition, and a thirty-eight waist measure doesn't help. The Cherub was already red of face and breathing heavily when he suddenly rounded a little thicket of stunted firs and found himself within arm's length of a slender, sallow faced person, who was holding a silk hat behind him and intently gazing at the crown of a straw one which showed above a bush some twenty yards away.

Even a side view from behind was enough to reveal the foreigner, for the jet black mustache and the little underlip tuft that curled over the chin were distinctly of alien cut and trim.

"Well, what's the game?"

The stranger was an amazingly cool sort. He merely turned quickly, measured Mr. Devine with one flash of keen brown eyes, lifted his brows expressively and shrugged his shoulders.

"Now, perhaps you'll tell me what it is all about," asked the Cherub.

The stranger's response to this was a politely impudent stare.

"I do not quite understand," he said, with just the slightest foreign accent.

"No?" drawled the Cherub mockingly. "Then there's two of us in the dark. But perhaps we can clear matters up. I found you skulking in that manner."

"Beg pardon, sir, but I do not recognize your right to question me in that manner."

"Who-e-w! What a haughty little man it is!" laughed the Cherub. "Ah, come down off the step-ladder! A minute or two ago you were dodging around as guilty as if you'd robbed a fruit stand. Now, what are you up to?"

"I am attending to my own affairs, sir."

"Then I'll help you," said the Cherub, "for I'm a good deal interested in this place and what is going on here."

"Indeed!" Again the stranger shrugged his shoulders. "But I don't know you, sir."

"Didn't act as if you wanted to, either. But here's where we get acquainted, just the same. My name's Devine—Cherub Devine."

"Eh? What?" gasped the stranger staring incredulously. "Why—a thousand pardons, Mr. Devine; allow me," and he hastily brought out a cardcase.

"Luigi Salvatore y Vecchi," read the Cherub, with some hesitancy in pronouncing the names. "Vecchi, eh? Ah, I see! Some relation of the late count's?"

The stranger smiled indulgently. "I am known as Count Vecchi."

Had the Cherub been at all emotional he would have gasped then. As it was, he merely did, but seemed to recover in time.

"But—but you're not the Count Vecchi who—who married Miss Hewington?"

The cigarette was waved toward the rim of his silk hat.

"I have that honor."

It was the Cherub's turn to stare incredulously.

"See here," he said protestingly, "either you're a dead count or a live liar, and I guess the last description fits best. Come, come! You've sprung that bluff on the wrong person. I happen to know that the real Count Vecchi has been dead for a couple of years."

VERY POPULAR
WITH SUBJECTSLate King Edward a Favorite of English People.

ON THRONE FOR NINE YEARS

From Early Manhood He Was the Most Active and Prominent Member of the British Royal Family and Since Ascending the Throne He Displayed Tact and Judgment, as Well as Conscientious Principle as King and Ruler.

Edward VII., late king of Great Britain, long known as Albert Edward, prince of Wales, was born Nov. 9, 1841, at Buckingham palace, London. Since reaching manhood he has been continuously before the British public as the most active and prominent member of the English royal family, figuring in innumerable court and civic functions at home and abroad, besides visiting foreign countries and in numberless ways doing unwearied work for the crown and nation. Among all ranks of the British people King Edward has been unqualifiedly a favorite and since his accession to the throne he had given evidence of tact and judgment, as well he gave up his right to succeed to the duchy of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, which he inherited from his father.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA
A DANISH PRINCESS.

March 10, 1863, he married Princess Alexandra, the eldest daughter of the king of Denmark.

Six children were born to the king and queen. Albert Victor, duke of Clarence and Avondale, the first born and heir apparent to the throne, was born in 1864 and died in 1892. The present heir apparent is George Frederick Ernest Albert, duke of Cornwall and York, born June 3, 1865, and married to Princess Victoria May of Teck.

Then there are Princess Louise, born in 1867 and married to the Duke of Fife, Princess Victoria, born in 1868, and Princess Maud, born in 1869 and married to Prince Charles of Denmark.

King Edward had not been in the best of health since he succeeded to the throne. There were repeated rumors that he was afflicted with an incurable malady, but these reports were emphatically denied from the palace and the cheerful demeanor of the king himself did much to quiet them.

CORONATION DELAYED
BY ILL HEALTH.

These rumors started with the trouble which caused the postponement of his coronation, June 26, 1902, to Aug. 9 of the same year. Two days before the first date set for the ceremony all festivities were stopped and it was announced that the king must submit to an immediate operation upon his throat. It was reported that the trouble was cancer. This was emphatically denied and the denial was repeated at intervals since, when as of conscientious principle as king and ruler. King Edward died in the ninth year of his reign and the sixtieth of his life.

King Edward's early education was conducted by private tutors, but later he studied at the universities of Oxford, Edinburgh and Cambridge. In 1869 he visited Canada and at the invitation of President Buchanan he extended his visit to the United States. His reception in this country was so cordial that in after years he often referred to the pleasure it had given him.

His visit to America was the beginning of a series of journeys which were continued until he ascended the throne as successor to his mother, the late Queen Victoria, in January, 1901. These journeys took him not only to every part of the British domain, but to other countries as well.

MIXED WITH ALL

CLASSES OF PEOPLE.

The future king was sharply criticized in many quarters for his conduct while Prince of Wales. His uncle, the emperor of Germany, was particularly disgusted with him, because of his democratic habit of mixing with all classes of people, not only at home, but abroad. Emperor William expressed his disapproval in terms so strong that it angered his nephew and when the latter came into his own as king of England, emperor of India, defender of the faith, etc., he had his revenge by getting the better of his uncle in several diplomatic tiffs. It is no secret either that Albert Edward's great advantage over his uncle lay in his more intimate acquaintance with the people of the various countries. Emperor William knew what his ministers told him. King Edward knew at first hand what the people who controlled the ministers were thinking. Consequently, on the international chess board, Edward was always one or two moves ahead of William.

It was in 1863, after his return from a tour of the East, that the prince was introduced to the privy council and took his seat in the house of lords. It was at the same time that ever the king was obliged to submit to treatment or to journey somewhere for his health.

When King Edward ascended the throne there was no little anxiety as to the kind of administration he would give. Good people, who feared that he would continue on a larger scale some of his exploits as Prince of Wales and administer the affairs of the kingdom along that line, were agreeably disappointed. He took the moral side of every issue. Moreover, he demonstrated that the king of England could be a real power in the government. King Edward began by recognizing the fact that his direct authority amounted to nothing and, like the thorough politician he was, he used his knowledge of men and affairs to acquire influence with the real power. The result was that his counsel was given consideration in all affairs of state.

ACCOMPLISHED MUCH

FOR GREAT BRITAIN.

Speaking of what King Edward had accomplished as a diplomat and peace-maker Sydney Brooks, London correspondent of Harper's Weekly, says that to weigh the tangible fruits of King Edward's endeavors it is only necessary to compare Great Britain's position today with what it was in 1901. At that time England and France were pursuing their secular quarrel with a bitterness that had come to be accepted on both sides of the channel as the basis of their normal relation. Today they are friends and all but allies.

The king has helped to rivet yet firmer the bonds that united Great Britain and Portugal; to broaden and confirm the Anglo-Japanese alliance; to coax Spain out of the ill humors and animosities bequeathed by the Spanish-American war; to dissipate the cloud that hung over the Anglo-Italian relations for some years after the disaster of Adowa; to bring the three chief Mediterranean powers together in a common understanding; to place an English princess on the new born throne of Norway, and, finally, to restore a state of confidence between England and Russia.
